WHAT WE DO
BEST

K-9 Unit at Shangri-La Hotel

CANINE SECURITY SOLUTIONS K-9 UNIT

The K-9 service in Sri Lanka first began in the 1940s at Katunayake Airport under the Royal Air Force and was later expanded island-wide by the Sri Lanka Police in 1948.

In the 1980s, during the civil conflict, LTTE terrorists posed a landmine threat to security forces. To counter this, a young police inspector was sent to the USA for specialized Explosive K-9 Instructor training. After 24 years of dedicated service in the K-9 field, he retired in 2016 and joined Sentryco Security. Under his leadership, the Sentryco K-9 Unit was established in 2019, becoming the first private sector K-9 security division in Sri Lanka.

Shangri-La Hotel & the Role of Our K-9 Unit

Following the Easter Sunday attack, in which Shangri-La Hotel was targeted, the hotel management sought enhanced security measures to prevent future threats. Sentryco Security responded by deploying highly trained explosive detection K-9 units, ensuring proactive threat mitigation and reinforcing guest safety.

Today, our Sentryco K-9 Unit operates with 15 explosive-sniffing dogs and 18 expert handlers, stationed 24/7 at the hotel's main entrances. To ensure elite performance, our K-9 expert personally conducted dog selection tests in the Netherlands, acquiring only the finest, high-performance detection dogs.
